

Stop Look listen

dlr Youth Arts Festival 2012

25 Oct - 3 Nov

10 days, 9 venues and more free workshops, gigs, performances and radio shows than you can shake a stick at!

I am delighted to introduce STOP LOOK LISTEN - dlr Youth Arts Festival 2012, a celebration of creative work by young people from all over the county. STOP LOOK LISTEN takes place all over the Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County including the Grainstore, dlr's Youth Arts Facility, the Beat Youth Café in Dún Laoghaire, Dublin South FM, Dundrum Town Centre, Marlay Park and in Nutgrove Youth Centre to name but a few. The Grainstore continues to be an important local amenity and I am delighted to see CANVAS' continuing hard work and energy coming together for an exciting 10 day programme.

Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council believes in the value of the arts. Through dlr's Arts Office we support the development of youth arts and couple our expertise with partner agencies, organisations and communities. We believe in offering quality arts programmes that place young people at the core.

On behalf of Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council I would like to thank the Arts Council, Department of Children and Youth Affairs, Department of Social Protection, Dún Laoghaire VEC, the local youth services, the local community and especially CANVAS and all the young people who ensure that the Grainstore is a vibrant home for youth arts for all the young people of the County.

CANVAS were directly involved in planning STOP LOOK LISTEN 2012 and many of the projects that you will see and hear over the 10 days. STOP LOOK LISTEN reflects the creative activities young people are involved in all over the county. STOP LOOK LISTEN is a celebration of all this activity and we hope you can join us and spread the word to get involved!

An Cathaoirleach, Councillor Tom Joyce.

Hello. We are CANVAS, the youth arts committee at the Grainstore, dlr's Youth Arts Facility. We got together in August 2009 and have been busy ever since. We have had a great time organising gigs and recording sessions, making films and running our own film club, putting on exhibitions and making artwork. STOP LOOK LISTEN - dlr Youth Arts Festival 2012 gives us an opportunity to show you what we and other young people from the County have been doing and what we are about.

This year you'll notice that there are things happening in 9 different venues as part of STOP LOOK LISTEN. That's important to us because we know that our friends and our peers are making and creating all over the county, and continue to do so. There are very creative young people all over Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown and that they have a dedicated Youth Arts Festival is fantastic.

CANVAS will mainly be working in the Grainstore for STOP LOOK LISTEN. It's our base and we are very proud of it. There is nowhere like the Grainstore, what really makes it unique is that it is a place where any young person can arrive, get involved and immediately feel like they belong. Many of us came here because we were interested in meeting new people who shared the same interests. This is a place where you can express yourself creatively. We've all got involved for different reasons and it has even helped some of us figure out what we want to do next. Two of our members Issac and Shane will tell their stories later on and make sure you stop by Out of doors and in or into the open air by the Kelly Memorial Collective and Michael McLoughlin!

We hope you find something of interest in STOP LOOK LISTEN dlr Youth Arts Festival 2012. We hope to see you at the Grainstore or one of the many venues around the county and look forward to hearing your ideas.

The St. Brigids' TY Project is in existence for 11 years and meets on the last Thursday of each month, from September to April in the Grainstore. The group are all transition year students from all over the county. They are involved because of their shared history of living and attending the local primary schools in Cabinteely. This project gives them the opportunity to meet again and connect with their local community.

This project is based on the stained glass window from the Harry Clarke School in St. Brigids Church. During STOP LOOK LISTEN new artwork by the group will be exhibited in the parish centre. The work is based on the community dimension of the parish and uses the narrative tradition of stained glass windows and icons to relate contemporary tales.

Isaac O' Sullivan: Young Writer in Residence

My name is Isaac O'Sullivan. I have been involved with the Grainstore since 2010. I first became acquainted with the Grainstore through a group of friends who had started a band and were getting their first gigs in the Grainstore. I started to attend with them and found a great place for young people to go to express themselves and find like-minded young people who shared the same interests, mainly music and art.

I immediately became involved with a group of young people in the Grainstore called CANVAS. CANVAS is in charge of putting on gigs and other events in the Grainstore. The events we put on were always well received, well attended and great fun! These events included hosting the I.Y.M.A's battle of the bands heat where the winner goes on to play a gig in Liberty Hall. Our annual festival "Grainstock" where local bands come from all around the local area to play and which has been the important first gig for many local bands. The Grainstore is not all about music however, we also started the "Radiophonic's Workshop" in which we created sound tracks for a couple of silent movies and played in front of a live audience. There is an Art Collective that put on exhibitions. And there is also a monthly movie club held in the Grainstore which shows some shorts from local budding movie makers and also a classic feature film.

My experience with the Grainstore has always been one of pure positivity and it became a key part in my life. I found the Grainstore when I was in 5th year, when I was under a lot of pressure in school from the Leaving Cert and the Grainstore gave me an escape from that, it gave me a place where I could relax and be myself and forget about the stresses of school.

A lot of the original CANVAS members have moved on to college, work and other endeavours and we have found it hard to devote as much time to the Grainstore, but I hope that more young people will carry on doing what we started, as the Grainstore is a fantastic facility for young people and should be cherished.

Issac O'Sullivan is currently Young Writer in Residence at the Grainstore and has gone on to study journalism this year.

With the help of Joey "The Lips" Fagan, the veteran musician in the band who has unlikely stories about meeting and working with famous musicians, Jimmy begins to whip the rest of the members into shape - only to have the group fall apart in a clash of egos.

Thursday 1st Nov 6-9pm Grainstore, dlr's Youth Arts Facility €3

Live Performance

CRW will perform the piece created for Reignite the Spark, followed by a new work based on improvised noise and percussion.

Primordial - All empires fall

Dir. Gareth Averil. 120 min, Ireland, 2007, 15+ years. Genre: Music Documentary

This documentary is an in-depth look at the history of Primordial.

It's superbly interesting not least for historical reasons - musicians giving an earnest account of the scene from the late 80s about the birth of extreme metal, touring, living the metal life and the great stories that come with it. If it was just the concert footage by itself this would be a good DVD. However, the documentary transcends a normal band biopic - it's a tale of a real band struggling against labels, trends, life and themselves for art. If you're a Primordial fan then this is for you; if not make sure to check out one of the most exciting bands of the decade, who has been lurking on the edge since the late 80s.

Q+A

Primordial - All Empires Fall will be followed by a conversation between Director Gareth Averil and the lead singer A.A. Nemtheanga. Not to be missed!!

CANVAS at the Cinemobile

Admission for films screened in the Cinemobile is free

Join CANVAS at the Cinemobile in Marlay Park! This cinema on wheels is a large truck that transforms into a 100-seater state of the art cinema. For details of the full Cinemobile Programme see www.dlrcoco.ie/arts

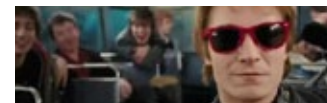

As part of STOP LOOK LISTEN 2012, CANVAS has chosen two feature films and a programme of shorts by the Floating Ape film makers and CANVAS Radiophonic Workshop. The shorts will precede the feature films. CANVAS have chosen a music theme for the feature films.

Searching for Sugarman

Saturday 3rd November 12pm Cinemobile, Marlay Park Dir. Malik Bendjelloul. 86 min, Sweden & UK, 2012, 15+ years. Starring: Rodriguez, Clarence Avant and Malik Bendjellou. Genre: Doc/Biography/Music

Searching for Sugar Man tells the incredible true story of Rodriguez, the greatest '70s rock icon who never was. The film follows the story of two South African fans who set out to find out what really happened to their hero. Their investigation leads them to a story more extraordinary than any of the existing myths about the artist known as Rodriguez.

Killing Bono

Saturday 3rd November 3pm Cinemobile, Marlay Park Dir. Nick Hamm. 114 min, UK & Ireland, 2011, 15+ years. Cast: Ben Barnes, Robert Sheehan, Martin McCann. Genre: comedy/musical

This film is based on the memoirs of Irish rocker Neil McCormick, who while in secondary school put together a punk band called "Frankie Corpse & the Undertakers", while his friend Paul was beginning to gig with his band "The Hype". It was 1977. Ten years later, Neil's music career was still going nowhere, while his friend Paul, now going by his nickname 'Bono', had taken over the world with his band.

About Floating Ape

The Floating Ape project is a fun, creative and experimental environment in which young people produce a mixture of live action films, stop-motion animations and digital mash ups.

Workshops focus on the use of still and moving imagery and looks at the various ways this particular media can be shaped and presented. The works in this year's STOP LOOK LISTEN programme are a mixture of all of the above, from the traditional to the experimental, small, sharp and insightful glimpses into the digital world in the hands of young people.

The Floating Ape group was established in May 2011 by a group of young people from Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County following a series of multimedia projects in the Grainstore, dlr's Youth Arts Facility; which were conducted by artist Michael Fortune. The group is currently working on a four -month residency with Michael and are busy producing new shorts for the CANVAS Film Club which is based in the Grainstore.

About CANVAS Radiophonic Workshops

CANVAS Radiophonic Workshop (CRW) is a constantly evolving sound-art collective. It began as a discussion group, where members would present their favourite music to the others.

This then progressed into experiments with sound and noise-creation. Early projects involved making sound with household items, broken electronics and contact microphones. Focus then shifted to films and live musical scores, which culminated in a performance in the Dalkey Community Care unit for Older People where members performed a live electronic score to a specially created film made in collaboration with the Kelly Memorial Collective. Response to the projects has been overwhelming.

CRW operates as a collective for non-musicians and musicians alike, and is open to anyone from ages of 15 to 25 who have even the slightest interest in sound, music, films, video-games or just something a little bit different. While no emphasis is put on technical ability, members of the group will receive hands on experience with various pieces of high-end audio equipment and software such as Ableton Live. The only thing we encourage is experimentation.

During STOP LOOK LISTEN there will be several opportunities to see/hear what CRW are doing.....Check out pages 18 and 19 for further details.

If you're interested in getting involved in CRW contact Michael, dlr's Youth Arts Worker. Text: (086) 0266617 or email yaw@dlrcoco.ie

Shane Mooney

S&S Studios

My name is Shane Mooney and I have been involved with the Grainstore for the past 4 years. I first heard about the Grainstore through friends who had started a group they called CANVAS, they were organising a gig and wanted more people to help out with equipment and the setting up of the sound system. At the time I was in my last year in school and wanted to get involved in the music industry but didn't know how, so I thought this would be a great opportunity for me as a music enthusiast and it was. I went along to the gig as a novice but came away with a better understanding about how a PA system worked.

Since joining the CANVAS group I have managed gigs, organised events with other young people, the latest being the CANVAS Film Club. The Grainstore became very useful when I was going through college. I was studying sound engineering and music production but after using the studio in college I had nowhere I could hone the practical skills I would need for exams later on in the year. The Grainstore has a fully functioning recording studio in which I was able to hone my skills as a sound technician throughout my college years, it helped greatly and because I was in CANVAS I was able to use it for free on a Wednesday.

In my last year of college, myself and a friend heard of the DLR incubation award, which allocates 30 hours to the proposer to manage their business in the Grainstore without charge. We had always wanted to work in the music industry and saw this as an opportunity to open a recording studio of our own. S&S Studios was born and has been in operation for the past year. S&S caters more towards the younger bands, bands who may not have been in a recording environment before and who might only have a couple of songs. Our main productions are EP's, which only require a couple of songs or even one but we do however cater for full albums.

At the moment we are involved with several projects, we also teach workshops for young people who would like to know how to record and edit their own songs.

S&S Studios works along side CANVAS when it executes gigs, helping with sound and stage management and answering any questions that the music enthusiasts may have about the sound systems and gig preparation etc.

Throughout the years I have used CANVAS and the Grainstore as an outlet for learning and also a way to meet new and interesting people. My only wish is for other young people like myself not so long ago, to realise the potential of the Grainstore and to do the same.

Shane Mooney is currently Director of S&S Studios, Secretary/member of CANVAS and main contact for the CANVAS Film Club at the Grainstore.*
